Chat Commands

/help - Typing /help in the chat will give you a basic help menu covering all common commands and topics.

/tell - Send a chat message directly to a player by using /tell, followed by the name of the player and the message you would like to send.

/r - Reply directly to the sender of the last received /tell.

/petition - You can ask for help from in-game ARK's and GM's by typing /petition (your problem). Problems which can be solved immediately have first priority i.e. stuck characters, abuse, losing your apartment key etc.

/tower terminate - Remove your tower when targeted. A member of your organisation with higher or equal organisation level can also terminate your tower with the same command.

In-game help and support

When playing Anarchy Online you can always press the white HELP button in the bottom right corner. A question mark will appear. Click on the category you want information about. You can also find advanced in-game information such as tactics, combat, improving skills and abilities and much more by clicking the links.

Help commands

To open the chat, press ENTER. Typing /help in the chat will open a menu covering all in-game commands. Click the links to learn more about the commands for each topic.

Graphic settings and keyboard layout

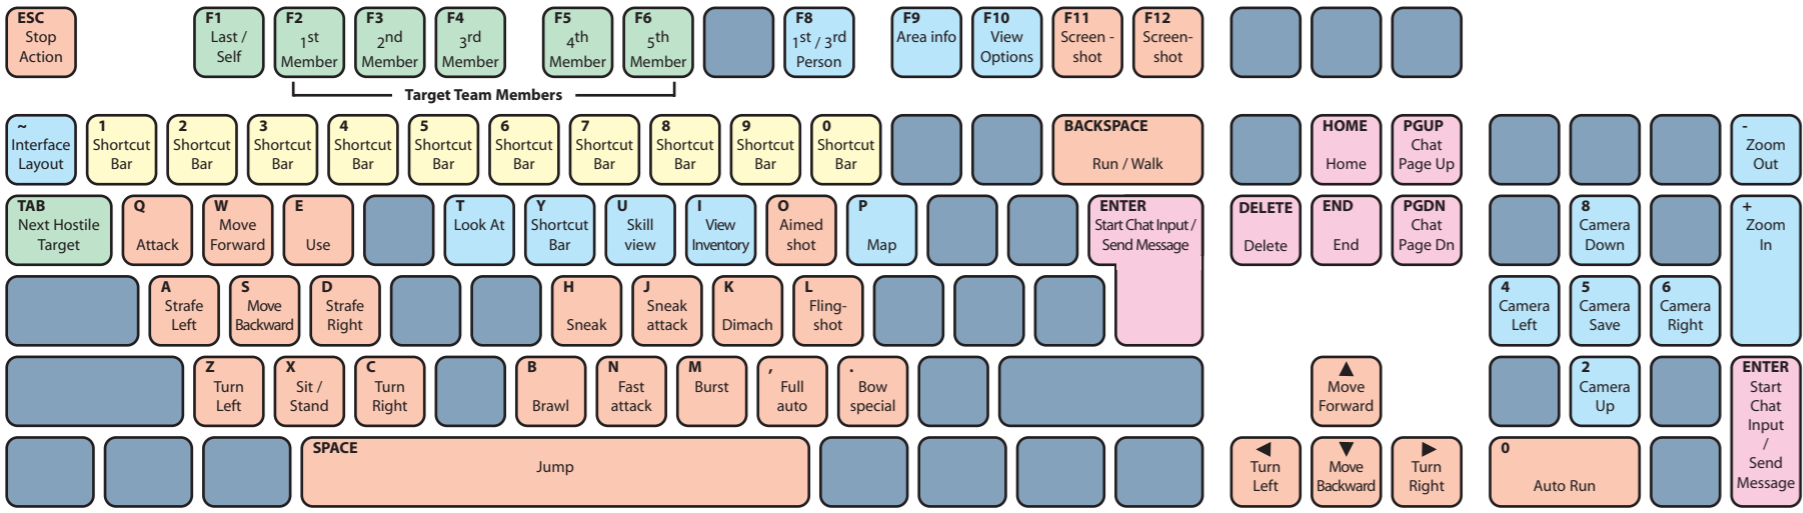

By pressing OPT (Options) in the bottom right corner you will get access to the various settings, as well as an overview of the various keyboard commands.

Live help with a Funcom representative

You can ask for help from Game Masters and the volunteer organisation ARK when you're in the game by typing /petition followed by your problem and hitting ENTER. Your petition for help will be placed in an automated queuing system. Some petitions will have a higher priority than others, depending on trigger-words in your question. You will find a list of these trigger-words by typing /petition help in the chat window.
